Chicago, June 6.—A general strike of maid servants is threatened in this city unless the employers agree to observe the rules and regulations drafted by the Household Workers' association. Copies of the regulations, headed "Rules for Mistresses," were distributed Wednesday. The announcement said:

"Get dressed (this rule must mean for dinner) before 8 p. m., for no lady's maid will work after that hour."

"Days off begin at breakfast and breakfast will be served at 7:30 a. m."

"If maids are out late a light shall be left burning for them."

WILSON'S FREE LIST STRONG

Support for His Plan on the Tariff Is Increasing

PARTY ALMOST UNANIMOUS

Free Sugar, Lumber, Wool and Shoes Will Stand

Washington, June 6.—President Wilson's position in support of free wool and free sugar seems to grow stronger as the day of the Senate caucus draws nearer. The tariff bill will be put to the acid test there and party leaders now feel that the president's stand will be supported almost unanimously by the party with the exception of two or three senators being released from the caucus pledge. There is an increasing possibility that not more than two Democratic senators will oppose the bill to the end. Senator after senator on the majority side has signified his intention to abide by the decision of the caucus by testimony before the lobby investigating committee. Free shoes, free lumber, free agricultural products, free wool and free sugar as provided in the Underwood bill are to stand, the administration leaders declare, and the probability of any amendments to those items on the floor of the Senate is lessening.

LAY GAMBLING TO NEW YORK POLICE

Committee Follows up Attack Upon
Waldo with Charges of Ineffective
Work.

New York, June 6.—The gambling and social evils have been allowed to exist in this city because of ineffective efforts by the police to eradicate them, it is charged in a report to the board of aldermen.

The report is the second section of the document prepared by the special aldermanic committee that took up an investigation of the police department after former Lieut. Charles Becker's hired gunmen murdered Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, last July. The first section of the report, made public Monday, recommended to Mayor Gaynor the removal of his police commissioner, Rhineclauder Waldo.

Gambling and prostitution are dealt with in the second section, not as moral questions, but only as they involve police problems. The mayor and his commissioner have endeavored to enforce the laws against gambling, but their efforts were ineffective, it is charged, "while it has been the policy of the two officials to enforce laws against the social evil only where outward conditions were disorderly or upon persistent complaint."

A number of recommendations are made for a reorganization of the department to enable it to deal more effectively with evil.

A Strong Armed Widow

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.

The town of Grahamsville was a slow town. All outsiders said so, and its citizens readily admitted it.

There was never any need for haste in Grahamsville. Folks died there now and then, but there was always lots of time for holding the funeral.

When this slow and conservative state of affairs had continued for many years the Widow Cameron struck the town, and struck it hard.

The Widow Cameron was forty years old and tall and rawboned. She had a decisive, commanding way with her. She was business. She might have come from Australia or a town only twenty miles away.

Just what the Widow Cameron was going to do was soon public property. She had an acre of ground with the house, and she put 450 chickens at work scratching up the soil and two incubators working overtime. She built her own coops and wire fences.

A roar went up.

There had been a time in the history of Grahamsville when every householder had his chickens and his harvest of eggs, but the crowing of roosters had awakened the people hours ahead of time, and by common consent all fowls had been banished. No crows nor chickens nor cackles for the past ten years, and here was the Widow Cameron breeding thousands of them!

Something must be done.

Squire Johnson must wait on her and tell her she can't keep chickens.

"Of course she can't," said the squire as he started for the widow's house to lay down the rules to her.

"Oh, I can't, eh?" she replied to his oratory.

"No, madam. We are very strict on that point."

"You and the rest of the folks can go to grass."

One of the ministers called to wrestle with her. She held the door against him while he said:

"Madam, our good people are very much exercised over the fact, the fact—"

"That I am raising chickens," she finished. "Well, you tell your good people that if they say much more I will sell my fowls and go to raising skunks for their fur and lie!"

Not another objection came from a citizen. No one was hankering to exchange chickens for skunks.

If they kept no hens in Grahamsville they did keep hogs and cows. The animals could run at large and feed themselves. The Widow Cameron gave public notice through the county paper that the owner of any hog or cow that trespassed upon her property would hear something drop.

"She can't mean it!" men said to each other. "Why, our animals have always run at large."

Mr. Schermerhorn's cow broke her way in one night, and at daylight she heard something drop. It was one of her horns. The owner wanted damages, but was told to go to.

Mr. Todd's big spotted hog rooted his way in and got a broken back for his pains. His owner was just foolish enough to call on the widow and try to collect $8 in cash, and it was over the fence for him.

Solomon Price was a widower who wanted a second wife. Why not capture the Widow Cameron and her chickens and real estate and the money she must have in the bank? Good thing, except that Solomon had no experience courting widows. Some one had told him that the first move to be made was to chuck the poor thing under the chin. He began that way. In return he received a right hand swing that fractured his jaw, and he went out of the house followed by a No. 8 calfskin shoe.

A tin peddler came along and sold the Widow Cameron some leaky utensils and got away before she discovered the cheat. A week later he returned to the village and was waylaid by his victim and had both eyes put in mourning.

There was a great jangling of three church bells on Sunday forenoons. It was to warn the people that Saturday had passed and Sunday had come and such of the population as cared to could hear a sermon at one of the three churches. No guarantee as to whether the sermon would be good, bad or indifferent. The widow didn't like the jangling, and she got out an injunction and had the bells silenced.

There were dogs in Grahamsville—many dogs. They had come to realize that they must not disturb the peace by fighting. They could growl and bristle as they passed by, but there must be no conflicts to determine which was the better dog. The Widow Cameron went about encouraging dogs of every breed to stand up for their rights and to fight at the drop of the hat. It got so there was a scrap every half hour.

What the Widow Cameron didn't do to the town of Grahamsville could not be told in columns. She woke it up. She bossed it. She terrorized it. She made it over into a rapid town. When it was realized that trade was increasing, strangers coming in and that a railroad was a probability a public meeting was called, and the citizens subscribed $4,000 and bought the widow out and saw that she left the town. And yet as she went she kicked Hiram Beebe in the shin for cheating her on a load of wood and also cuffed Moses Dewberry up to a peak for saying that she couldn't get married if she had a million dollars back of her.

LOBBY A FACT SAYS OVERMAN

Chairman Declares It Tries to Create a Fictitious
Public Sentiment

SAYS PRESIDENT'S ASSERTIONS PROVED

Overman Sees Organized
Activity in a New Form

Washington, June 6.—"President Wilson's charge that a powerful and insidious lobby is fighting to defeat the tariff measure has been fully sustained."

This was the emphatic declaration of Senator Overman of North Carolina, chairman of the Senate investigating committee, yesterday afternoon, when he announced that the investigation would be extended over the 10-day period which the Cummins resolution creating the committee specified.

Overman declared that the 65 senators who had been examined had proven conclusively to the committee that at least three specialized lobbies, with branches reaching out all over the country, are using every method to defeat certain provisions in the Wilson-Underwood bill. These lobbies, he said, were the sugar "trust" wool "trust" and insurance organizations.

He declared that they were making lavish use of newspapers, briefs, circulars and telegrams to create a national misconception of the effect of tariff changes in an effort to force the national legislature to vote as they desired.

The committee yesterday issued subpoenas for twelve more manufacturers and manufacturers' agents who have been active in fighting the tariff measure since it reached the Senate.

They are Truman G. Palmer of New York, Frank C. Lehigh of New York, Winthrop L. Marvin of Boston, ex-Congressman Charles B. Landis of Indiana, Robert Crain of Baltimore, George Gilliland and Charles Hamilton, both of Washington, D. C., former senator C. J. Faulkner of West Virginia, Colin Livingston of Washington, D. C., Arthur B. Hayes, Paul J. Christian, and W. J. Strassburger, all of Pittsburgh.

When the committee makes its final report, Overman said, it will include a tentative bill prohibiting interested parties from urging their views on legislative matters, upon individual congressmen. It will provide that all interested parties must make their arguments before committees.

Yesterday's hearing was largely a rehearsal of testimony given in the previous four days' sessions. Five senators, Goff of West Virginia, Gore of Oklahoma, Sherman of Illinois, Shields of Tennessee and Smith of Georgia, testified. The feature of the hearing was Senator Goff's casual announcement that his income, exclusive of the two salaries which he draws from the government as United States senator and United States circuit judge, retired, was $85,000 a year.

Sugar and wool lobbyists, who have been directing the nation-wide propaganda against the Underwood tariff bill, were scheduled late yesterday to tell the Senate lobby investigating committee what senators they had sought to influence, and what arguments they had used.

Among those waiting to be called when the session opened were Senators Warren of Wyoming, one of the wealthiest men of the upper House; Weeks of Massachusetts, Williams of Mississippi, Works of California and Tillman of South Carolina.

FAVORABLY IMPRESSED.

Tone of Japanese Note Pleases Official Washington.

Washington, June 6.—Japan's latest word in her protest against the California anti-alien land law was before President Wilson yesterday, waiting to be presented to the cabinet at its regular semi-weekly meeting to-day.

It is more than probable that the cabinet will consider the rejoinder only in a preliminary way, as Secretary Bryan expected to leave the city soon after the meeting, for Pittsburgh, to attend a banquet to George W. Guthrie, the newly appointed ambassador to Japan. Viscount Chinda, Japan's ambassador, also will be a guest at the function, but will go on an early train.

The next step in the negotiations is a reply to Japan's rejoinder. This is expected to take up the Tokio government's reiterated contention that the Webb law is in contravention of the treaty of 1911, derogatory to the equal treatment which Japan expects under international law and therefore a racial discrimination. The whole tone of the Japanese note, inviting further negotiations upon the controverted points, impressed official Washington more than favorably.
